In the third and final step, the awakening of the body allows the spirit to be freer. The body is no longer a hindrance but instead, it has become a springboard for the spirit. Body and mind support each other and progress together. The aikidoka feels through his body that his gestures, his physical behavior, have a spiritual extension.

Aikido - Unification of body and spirit - GuillaumeErard.com
Aikido is a lot about unifying body, mind, and spirit, but it usually deals with them on the mental and physical "plane." In other words, it's about how to establish spiritual things like peace and harmony within the framework of the physical world -- like how to physically stop an attacker coming at you with a sword in a way that keeps both of you from getting hurt.
