Matt Miller's new book, The Tyranny of Dead Ideas, is very good. I agree with a great deal of what he has to say. On what Miller thinks is our most important problem, though, the book falls a little short. Here's a brief summary of what Miller suggests are six influential but misleading ideas, why they're wrong, and what we should do:

[The Tyranny of Dead Ideas] | C-SPAN.org
The global economic downturn that began in 2008 has laid bare the structural weakness of our economy, putting the country through its most severe test since the Great Depression. Yet our political and business leaders have failed to prepare us because they are in the grip of a set of "dead ideas" about how a modern economy should work.
